

SMASHED THE CAB WINDOWS.

Dr. Selden Thinks He was Given a "Knock-Out" Drink.

Robbed of $700, and His Face Badly Battered by Somebody.

Dr. Charles W. Selden, a practicing physician at 217 West Fourth street, was robbed of $700 in bills and valuables, and his face was badly battered by somebody, on Monday night last.

The doctor is about fifty years old, heavily built and well preserved. His appearance this morning betokened rough usage to say the least.

In all the kaleidoscope of disgraced faces in the prisoners' pen the doctor was undoubtedly the most unattractive. His iron-gray mustache and sparse hair were matted with blood, and his face was so badly cut and contused as to make it almost unrecognizable to his friends.

Behind all this, the doctor had been robbed of $700 in bills and valuables, and seemed to have no recourse; no counter charge was made against the cabman on whose complaint the doctor was held for trial.

The complainant's name is Patrick Carroll, of 200 East Seventh street. In his affidavit he alleges that between 5 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon the doctor and a companion, a dark-complexioned young man, engaged him at Forty-first street and Park avenue to drive them about. For nearly three hours the pair were driven about the city, and finally, on Broadway near Third street, the crashing of glass arrested the driver's attention. The young man leaped out and ran away, and the doctor followed, says the complaint, swinging a heavy cane with which he broke every pane of glass on the cab. He knocked Carroll down and started to run away, but slipped and fell against the curb, cutting an ugly gash under the left eye, which was almost instantly attended to by a policeman on duty. The doctor, who was in the cab, arrested the doctor and locked him up over night.

To an evening world reporter this morning Dr. Selden said that the last circumstance he remembered was that he was driving in a Park horse saloon about noon yesterday. He believes he got a "knock-out" drink. At any rate, he lost his memory.

When he left home in the morning it was, he said, with the intention of having a good time. He had $700 in his pocket, and a cord around his neck, a gold watch and other valuables and change, making a total value of $700. He had no other money on him, and believes he was robbed.

He remembers nothing of his companion, but the police will endeavor to find him. The doctor offered to pay for the damage done to the cab, but was refused. He said, however, that he would allow the charge to be withdrawn.

WEDDED AN EARL'S NEPHEW.

Wayne Cuyler, of Baltimore, the Bride of Sir Philip Grey-Egerton.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—St. Peter's Church, Eaton Square, was filled with a fashionable throng this afternoon to witness the marriage of Sir Philip Grey-Egerton and Miss Wayne Cuyler, of Baltimore, Md.

The altar, carved with other parts of the church, were handsomely decorated with flowers and palms.

The bride was escorted to the altar by Mr. Henry White, Charge d'Affaires of the American Legation. Her wedding gown was of heavy white satin, with a Watteau train, bordered with orange blossom, Empire style and Empire style, and was adorned with crystals and pearls.

The bride wore an Empire skirt of old point lace. Her trousseau was fastened with a diamond star, the gift of Mr. Holton, her grandmother, and a diamond butterfly. Her other jewelry was a pearl and diamond necklace and a bracelet, both of the same design.

Sir Philip was attended to Lord Grosvenor, as best man. Misses Cornwallis, Corbett and Egerton, in simple but handsome gowns, acted as bridesmaids.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Egerton, Rev. George Egerton and the Rev. Mr. St. Peter. The service was full choir. After the ceremony, the bride and groom signed the register and then left London for the Riviera, where they will pass an extended honeymoon.

Sir Philip is a nephew of the sixth Earl of Devon. His London residence is at Grosvenor Park, Grosvenor, Chelsea and Grosvenor, Old Chelsea.

Miss Cuyler is a daughter of the late Patrick Cuyler, of the United States Engineering Corps. It is claimed that she is one of the most beautiful women in the world.

Sir Philip is known in American society, he is in company with his mother, who is a daughter of the first Baron Londesborough, having passed part of her childhood in London and Lenox, where several entertainments were given in her honor.

TIED OF THE STRUGGLE.

Prof. Schultz Took an Overdose of Chloral.

A Chicago dispatch announces that Prof. Julian O. Schultz, formerly an instructor at Dr. Ernest Bernhart's Grand Conservatory of Music, in West Twenty-third street, is lying seriously ill at Michael Reese Hospital, in that city, the result of an overdose of chloral taken Sunday night.

It is said that Prof. Schultz has met with reverses in Chicago; that his future in the United States Conservatory, in that city, has been broken, and he had not regained his composure; that, indeed, he had been driven out of the city.

He refused to say why he took the chloral. Dr. Bernhart said that he had taken it to relieve his mind, and that he had been very much distressed. He was an excellent musician, and was very popular in the city.

He came to the city from St. Louis in 1887. He was then thirty-three years of age. He was a student, faithful, and hard worker, but he could not wait for advancement.

HE SCENTED FRAUD.

Saloonkeeper Voeuburn Not in the Business of Gambling Checks.

The Brooklyn police are looking for a young man who called at the Voeuburn saloon, 410 Myrtle avenue, last night, and sent a letter to the saloonkeeper, John W. Voeuburn, a saloonkeeper, of 440 Fulton street, with a request to call it.

The check was signed "Dr. Carey," Voeuburn said it was a forgery, and kept the check, telling the messenger that the man who sent it could call and get it back.

The man disappeared. Dr. Carey pronounced the signature a forgery.

Kentucky's Whiskey Product.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 4.—T. M. Gilmore, a prominent whiskey man and representative of an Eastern whiskey journal, said that the whiskey production for the year promises to exceed by far all previous productions. The indications are that this district alone will produce 30,000,000 gallons, which is only 10,000,000 less than the entire State produced last year. The estimated production for the State for the present season is 50,000,000 gallons.

Diphtheria on the Weimar.

The steamer Weimar, from Bremen, arrived at quarantine this morning, and when Health Officer Jenkins went on board he was informed that there had been a death from diphtheria. The steamer during the voyage. The Weimar is the vessel that was held for twenty days at Baltimore recently under the President's cholera proclamation.

WAS IT A SLAP AT GRANT?

Mr. Croker's Disapproval of Business Men for Office.

Varying Comments Heard Among Local Politicians.

Nothing in a long time has caused so much talk among politicians and business men who aspire to political honors as the published interview with Mr. Richard Croker, the leader of Tammany Hall, in which he is quoted as having said:

"You can say for me that I believe that the offices should be held by politicians. The present administration of the municipal Government shows that the city is better and more economically governed when politicians fill the offices than when so-called 'business men' administer them."

Men with business abilities are needed in the public service, but their abilities should be wholly exercised in the public interest. When a business man who accepts a public place debuts himself entirely to it, he is at once dubbed a politician. For myself I shall recommend no man to office who is not willing to give up his own business to give his entire time and service to the business of the people.

By some it is believed that Mr. Croker's remarks amount practically to a declaration that business men need not apply for office under Tammany Hall, and that the more significant of the Tammany Hall leaders are in view of the fact that Mr. Croker, who has two sons or more appointments to make between now and May 1, indicates a preference for politicians. Others go so far as to say that Mr. Croker's words are a direct slap at ex-Mayor Grant, who is a business man, and has appointed himself to the office of Mayor of New York. It is well known that ex-Mayor Grant in several places, including a heavy cane with which he broke every pane of glass on the cab, he knocked Carroll down and started to run away, but slipped and fell against the curb, cutting an ugly gash under the left eye, which was almost instantly attended to by a policeman on duty. The doctor, who was in the cab, arrested the doctor and locked him up over night.

To an evening world reporter this morning Dr. Selden said that the last circumstance he remembered was that he was driving in a Park horse saloon about noon yesterday. He believes he got a "knock-out" drink. At any rate, he lost his memory.

When he left home in the morning it was, he said, with the intention of having a good time. He had $700 in his pocket, and a cord around his neck, a gold watch and other valuables and change, making a total value of $700. He had no other money on him, and believes he was robbed.

He remembers nothing of his companion, but the police will endeavor to find him. The doctor offered to pay for the damage done to the cab, but was refused. He said, however, that he would allow the charge to be withdrawn.

WEDDED AN EARL'S NEPHEW.

Wayne Cuyler, of Baltimore, the Bride of Sir Philip Grey-Egerton.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—St. Peter's Church, Eaton Square, was filled with a fashionable throng this afternoon to witness the marriage of Sir Philip Grey-Egerton and Miss Wayne Cuyler, of Baltimore, Md.

The altar, carved with other parts of the church, were handsomely decorated with flowers and palms.

The bride was escorted to the altar by Mr. Henry White, Charge d'Affaires of the American Legation. Her wedding gown was of heavy white satin, with a Watteau train, bordered with orange blossom, Empire style and Empire style, and was adorned with crystals and pearls.

The bride wore an Empire skirt of old point lace. Her trousseau was fastened with a diamond star, the gift of Mr. Holton, her grandmother, and a diamond butterfly. Her other jewelry was a pearl and diamond necklace and a bracelet, both of the same design.

Sir Philip was attended to Lord Grosvenor, as best man. Misses Cornwallis, Corbett and Egerton, in simple but handsome gowns, acted as bridesmaids.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. William Egerton, Rev. George Egerton and the Rev. Mr. St. Peter. The service was full choir. After the ceremony, the bride and groom signed the register and then left London for the Riviera, where they will pass an extended honeymoon.

Sir Philip is a nephew of the sixth Earl of Devon. His London residence is at Grosvenor Park, Grosvenor, Chelsea and Grosvenor, Old Chelsea.

Miss Cuyler is a daughter of the late Patrick Cuyler, of the United States Engineering Corps. It is claimed that she is one of the most beautiful women in the world.

Sir Philip is known in American society, he is in company with his mother, who is a daughter of the first Baron Londesborough, having passed part of her childhood in London and Lenox, where several entertainments were given in her honor.

TIED OF THE STRUGGLE.

Prof. Schultz Took an Overdose of Chloral.

A Chicago dispatch announces that Prof. Julian O. Schultz, formerly an instructor at Dr. Ernest Bernhart's Grand Conservatory of Music, in West Twenty-third street, is lying seriously ill at Michael Reese Hospital, in that city, the result of an overdose of chloral taken Sunday night.

It is said that Prof. Schultz has met with reverses in Chicago; that his future in the United States Conservatory, in that city, has been broken, and he had not regained his composure; that, indeed, he had been driven out of the city.

He refused to say why he took the chloral. Dr. Bernhart said that he had taken it to relieve his mind, and that he had been very much distressed. He was an excellent musician, and was very popular in the city.

He came to the city from St. Louis in 1887. He was then thirty-three years of age. He was a student, faithful, and hard worker, but he could not wait for advancement.

HE SCENTED FRAUD.

Saloonkeeper Voeuburn Not in the Business of Gambling Checks.

The Brooklyn police are looking for a young man who called at the Voeuburn saloon, 410 Myrtle avenue, last night, and sent a letter to the saloonkeeper, John W. Voeuburn, a saloonkeeper, of 440 Fulton street, with a request to call it.

The check was signed "Dr. Carey," Voeuburn said it was a forgery, and kept the check, telling the messenger that the man who sent it could call and get it back.

The man disappeared. Dr. Carey pronounced the signature a forgery.

Kentucky's Whiskey Product.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 4.—T. M. Gilmore, a prominent whiskey man and representative of an Eastern whiskey journal, said that the whiskey production for the year promises to exceed by far all previous productions. The indications are that this district alone will produce 30,000,000 gallons, which is only 10,000,000 less than the entire State produced last year. The estimated production for the State for the present season is 50,000,000 gallons.

Diphtheria on the Weimar.

The steamer Weimar, from Bremen, arrived at quarantine this morning, and when Health Officer Jenkins went on board he was informed that there had been a death from diphtheria. The steamer during the voyage. The Weimar is the vessel that was held for twenty days at Baltimore recently under the President's cholera proclamation.

SURGEON STAHLIN'S EXCUSE.

A Lame Defense to the Charge of Attempted Extortion.

Jacobs Will Probably Go Before the Hospital Board.

It is probable that William Jacobs, who charges senior Surgeon Edward Stahlin, of the Chambers Street Hospital, with attempted extortion in asking pay for a medical certificate, will go before the Board of Medical Officers of the New York Hospital at its next meeting and repeat his story told exclusively in yesterday's Evening World.

This step is necessary before any investigation of the matter by the hospital authorities will be made.

An Evening World reporter who this morning called on Supt. George P. Ludlum, of the New York Hospital, was refused an interview.

The Chambers Street Hospital, which is a branch of the New York Hospital, is under the jurisdiction of Supt. Ludlum, whose duty it is to make an investigation of any charges of irregular practice among the staff of either hospital.

It would seem that the sworn statement of the facts printed in yesterday's Evening World should be amply sufficient to cause the hospital authorities to take the matter up, but according to President Merritt Trimble, of the Chambers Street Hospital, who is also President of the New York Hospital, no notice will be taken of Dr. Stahlin's alleged dire violation of the law, and a specific charge will be entered by Jacobs.

Dr. Stahlin, who, when first confronted with the charges, denied to a reporter that he had anything about it, has since admitted that he did, and has since been ordered to pay for his certificate and cost him $25.

His lame excuse for so doing is that it was a mistake. He (Dr. Stahlin) thought the certificate was to be used in the settlement of his case with the man, who, as usual, was paid by the man.

In the face of the statement in Jacobs' affidavit that he had been told that the certificate was to be used in court, and was applied for at the request of Justice Gray, the young doctor's excuse is hardly acceptable.

Settler Supt. Hale, of the Chambers Street Hospital, Dr. Stahlin will discuss the matter further.

DISCORD IN WEDDING BELLS.

Eleven Policemen Quelled a Row at a Bridal Reception.

There was a wedding reception at 80 Astor street last evening, but the wedding bells were discordant, and the bride and groom were not present.

The bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present. The wedding was a private affair, and the bride and groom were not present.

CHOKED HER ALMOST TO DEATH.

Heigel Attacked His Landlady Because She Dismissed Him.

Heigel Attacked His Landlady Because She Dismissed Him.

What may prove to be the third homicide case this week, came before Justice Taylor in the Yorkville Police Court this morning.

Louis Heigel, aged thirty-two, a brewer's helper, of 212 West Sixty-second street, was held without bail pending the result of injuries he is alleged to have inflicted upon Mrs. Catherine Fleischer, of the same address.

According to the evidence, Heigel, who had been boarding with Mrs. Fleischer for some time, was dismissed because of his temperate habits. Yesterday, after claiming to have looked unsuccessfully for a new boarding place, Heigel returned at 2 p.m., and insisted that Mrs. Fleischer permit him to remain.

He then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

As the policeman was setting forth to take Heigel to the hospital, he was attacked by Heigel, who tried to strike him with his fist.

Heigel then went to the street, fell on the sidewalk and was found by Policeman Hanley, of the Sixty-second street station, helplessly intoxicated.

AREMARKABLE STORY.

Fourteen Inmates of St. Joseph's Institute.

A Group of Bright Lads, Who Were Ill for Fifteen Months, and for Whom Some of the Most Expert Specialists in New York Worked in Vain--A Narrative Showing that a Woman's Intuitions Are Often to Be Relied On.

A most remarkable story is told by the Superintendent of St. Joseph's Institute, Westchester.

St. Joseph's Institute is an asylum for deaf mutes, and is under the immediate care of the State, which makes appropriate annually for its maintenance. Its managers are Ernestine Gardiner, President; Mary B. Morgan, Vice-President; and Annie M. Larkin, Secretary and Treasurer. The institution has branches at Fordham and Brooklyn.

The cure of all these boys in a short period of time is regarded by the asylum authorities as a remarkable exhibition of medical skill. It is considered that in all the time they were ill no one could be found to effect a cure until Drs. Copeland and Gardner were called into the case, the work may well be called remarkable.

Within another week all the boys were under treatment. The medicines prescribed by Drs. Copeland and Gardner at once succeeded where the efforts of all the experts who had before been consulted had failed. Before the time specified had elapsed the boys were all in first-class condition. When

THEY WERE PRONOUNCED CURED

by Drs. Copeland and Gardner they were taken before the physician at St. Joseph's Institute, and he was asked if they were all right. He said they were, and the good ladies of the institute felt that they had been justified by their cure, we shall sound your praises far and near."

The cure of all these boys in a short period of time is regarded by the asylum authorities as a remarkable exhibition of medical skill. It is considered that in all the time they were ill no one could be found to effect a cure until Drs. Copeland and Gardner were called into the case, the work may well be called remarkable.

Within another week all the boys were under treatment. The medicines prescribed by Drs. Copeland and Gardner at once succeeded where the efforts of all the experts who had before been consulted had failed. Before the time specified had elapsed the boys were all in first-class condition. When

THEY WERE PRONOUNCED CURED

by Drs. Copeland and Gardner they were taken before the physician at St. Joseph's Institute, and he was asked if they were all right. He said they were, and the good ladies of the institute felt that they had been justified by their cure, we shall sound your praises far and near."

The cure of all these boys in a short period of time is regarded by the asylum authorities as a remarkable exhibition of medical skill. It is considered that in all the time they were ill no one could be found to effect a cure until Drs. Copeland and Gardner were called into the case, the work may well be called remarkable.

Within another week all the boys were under treatment. The medicines prescribed by Drs. Copeland and Gardner at once succeeded where the efforts of all the experts who had before been consulted had failed. Before the time specified had elapsed the boys were all in first-class condition. When

THEY WERE PR